

Dear (Insert name of representative),

Population growth contributes to many of today's pressing issues. Along with other factors, it:

- adversely affects quality of life and the cost of living
- contributes to environmental degradation and resource depletion
- threatens future sustainability and the prospects of a decent life for all.

The UN projects that the global population will rise to around 11 billion by 2100 and no country will be unaffected by the consequences.

Given this, can I ask:

- what are your views and those of your organization on population in relation to population growth
- what actions do you and your organization propose to reduce and reverse unsustainable population growth?

I look forward to hearing your views.

Many thanks,

Yours sincerely,
